

Abstract: Quality management is one of the basic components of the project, it refers to both the products and the actions taken which lead to the realization of the final product. The article presents the essence of quality management in projects in a traditional approach to a project management.