

Optical diffraction on periodical interface belongs to relatively fewer exploited applications of boundary integral equations method. This contribution presents a less frequent formulation of diffraction problem based on vector tangential fields. There are discussed properties of obtained boundary operators with singular kernel and several problems related to numerical implementation.